

Raising Cane's Hospitality Student Leadership Fund Information

Raising Cane's was founded by Mr. Todd Graves (Founder & CEO) who had a vision of a restaurant that served the highest quality, freshest chicken finger meals – and nothing else. Over the last 20 years Raising Cane's and Mr. Graves have been consistently recognized by the industry as a leading organization in the industry. Mr. Graves refuses to compromise his and the organizations dedication to the community and his commitment to give back. Mr. Graves carries his tremendous success in business over to a wide array of philanthropic endeavors. As an active community partner, Mr. Graves has given more than 25 percent of profits back to the communities where Raising Cane's restaurants operate. Raising Cane's gives back to each community with an emphasis on schools, food banks, active lifestyles, canine assistance and business and entrepreneur organizations.

Raising Cane's established the Raising Cane's Hospitality Student Leadership Fund to support hospitality management students at the University of North Texas. Specifically, the Fund was established to support registration costs and travel expenses associated with students' exposure to skills, practices and understanding of the industry through annual hospitality conferences, seminars and other professional development opportunities related to student leadership within the restaurant industry.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS:

Students wishing to be considered for activities supported by the Fund must meet the following criteria:

- Enrolled as a full-time undergraduate in Hospitality Management entering their junior or senior year at UNT.
- Meet the minimum entrance and continuing academic standards of the Department of Hospitality and Tourism Management (HTM) in the College of Merchandising, Hospitality and Tourism (CMHT) in effect at the time of the award.
- Maintain full-time enrollment as established by UNT, unless the student is nearing completion of his or her degree program and does not need full-time enrollment.
- All students awarded funds will be required to write a post event written essay (based upon how the fund contributed to the recipient's individual leadership development – due two weeks post event). Failure to submit this document authorizes the university to withdraw award.
- All required, both before and after, must be typed. Handwritten documents besides this application page will not be accepted.

The HTM faculty committee will further evaluate student applicants for this competitive Fund based upon the following criteria:

- Academic performance (preference will be given to higher academic achievement).
- Resume
- Essay

- Willingness to participate in extra-curricular activities as a Raising Cane's Ambassador (participation in targeted organizational, community, college and departmental activities, functions and/or events). This commitment to participate is for up to one year, or while a UNT student, whichever is shorter in duration.

Raising Cane's established the following Raising Cane's Hospitality Student Leadership Fund awardee obligations/conditions:

- Submit a written post event reflection report (based upon how the fund contributed to the recipient's individual leadership development – due two weeks post event).
- Participate and/or service to HTM at an event (may include working five (5) hours of time at a UNT booth or other activity as determined by HTM faculty committee).
- Students must be willing to serve as a Raising Canes ambassador as the recipient of funding. This may include participation in targeted organizational, community, college and departmental activities, functions and/or events.

Raising Cane's Hospitality Student Leadership Fund student awards will be distributed directly to individual UNT student accounts during the semester the award is given. (Prior to the event to support registration costs and travel expenses). By accepting this award, students acknowledge that the award can be withdrawn and the student's UNT account can be billed for the entire award amount if the terms of this award are not met.

Students may request funding for any conference or opportunity that exposes the student to skills, practices and understanding of the industry through annual hospitality conferences, seminars, and other professional development opportunities related to student leadership within the restaurant industry.
